Welcome to Manchester!

Dear Conference delegate,

Welcome to the 64th Conference of the Political Studies Association, hosted by the University of Manchester. We are expecting over 600 delegates, representing over 80 different countries, to join us at the Midland Hotel here in Manchester.

“Manchester changed the world’s politics: from vegetarianism to feminism to trade unionism to communism, every upstart notion that ever got ideas above its station, every snotty street-fighter of radical philosophy, was fostered brawling in Manchester’s streets, mulls, pubs, churches and debating halls. Before it fled to London in the 1960s and became ‘Islingtonised’, the Manchester Guardian was Britain’s most radical liberal newspaper...Lydia Becker, the daughter of a Chadderton chemical works owner, pioneered the notion of votes for women with her National Society for Women’s Suffrage, a movement later radicalized and turned into a potent political agency by another Manchester family, the Pankhursts. The TUC first met here in 1968. Vegetarianism in the western world began in Salford in 1809 when the Rev. William Cowherd persuaded his congregation to give up meat and the concept swept Manchester; there were more vegetarian restaurants in the 1880s than today. The greatest military and economic super-power the world has ever known spent half a century sweating nervously, armed to the teeth and generally terrified of an idea born in Manchester, namely communism. Now that’s attitude!” (Stuart Maconie, Pies & Prejudice, p. 113)

The conference theme is ‘Rebels & Radicals’ and this impressive political pedigree makes Manchester the perfect place to ponder how those on the margins encourage change by prodding and pushing the mainstream. Highlights at the conference this year include the Annual Conference Dinner in the Great Hall at Manchester Town Hall, with the address from Professor Shami Chakrabarti, Director of Liberty, and Professor Bev Skeggs offering a closing keynote address on the impact of Benefits Street as a new dimension of UK class politics. Throughout the conference there is an impressive array of panels from familiar fields such as elections, executive governance, public policy and labour studies, but also numerous sessions on gender and sexuality, with Politics sponsoring a lunch for the Women & Politics Specialist Group. On Monday evening we hope you will join us for a bit of jazz from Sandi Russell, which follows the Schapiro Lecture by Professor Ron Johnston and the Government & Opposition Reception. We also have an exciting theme across three panels focusing on young people, social media and voting, with local A/AS Level students joining the conference on Wednesday for a taste of cutting edge politics research.

It’s been another busy year at the PSA. We have been working with ministers, parliamentary committees and publishers to ensure that moves towards open access publishing do not bring unintended consequences that disadvantage academics in the social sciences. We are continuing our work with schools, through our third student video competition, schools talks from our academics, and the appointment of a new member of staff, James Ludley, who will focus on working with our teacher members. James will also work closely with our 40+ Specialist Groups - as ever a lively presence at the conference - to give them additional support. Numerous top politicians, political scientists and journalists attended our annual awards dinner in November, and we have continued to forge links with the media through our election briefings at the Institute for Government. We have also been working to enhance our relationship with ESRC to ensure a strong place for political studies in UK research funding. Underpinning all of this, we have been exploring new ways to understand the views and priorities of members - in part through surveys of the membership, in part by a programme of visits to departments. All these themes, around the teaching of politics in schools, open access, research funding, specialist groups and member priorities will be under discussion in Manchester. Do join in and let us know your views.

Thanks for organising this year’s conference are especially due to the academic convenor Angelia Wilson and the Manchester Team who have put together a fantastic programme, and to Helena Djurkovic, Louise Bates, Sandra McDonagh and Jack Neenan. I should also like to thank Wiley-Blackwell and Routledge for their generous sponsorship. Manchester is a great city and the conference looks to be both an intellectually engaging and socially exciting time. I hope your conference experience is thoroughly enjoyable!

Conference Programme

13.30-15.00 Panel Session 7

'The Myth of the Strong Leader: Political Leadership in the Modern Age'
Political Leadership Specialist Group

- Chair: Professor Matthew Flinders (University of Sheffield)
- Speaker: (Emeritus) Professor Archie Brown (St Antony’s College, University of Oxford)
- Discussants: Bridget Kendall (BBC Diplomatic Correspondent)
  Professor Michael Moran (University of Manchester Business School)

15.00-15.30 Tea/Coffee (MUP and Manchester Capitalism)

Afternoon break sponsored by Redescriptions journal published by Manchester University Press.

Redescriptions is unique in promoting ‘political thought’ as an approach which emphasizes the contestability of concepts and the role of rhetoric in the study of ideas. The journal publishes articles from many disciplines, including political theory, history of ideas, feminist scholarship, philosophy and beyond. Above all, Redescriptions is known as a journal for politically inspired theoretical and historical work and theoretically challenging political thought. The main focus of Redescriptions is in the interdisciplinary area of politics, political theory, history, feminist theory, and philosophy.

15.30-17.00 Panel Session 8

The Conversation: ‘Is the power of the political journalist in decline?’
Sponsored by SAGE and The Conversation

- Participants: Arif Ansari (BBC North West Political Editor), Professor Ivor Gaber (Professor of Political Journalism, City University), Stephen Kahn (Editor, The Conversation), Jonathan Este (Political Correspondent, The Conversation)

The media is in the midst of a revolution. New outlets are emerging at an astonishing rate. Old ones are contracting. This means journalists are changing the way they operate at remarkable speed. And the door has been opened for non-journalists to play a much more significant role communicating information. But what does this mean for political journalism? Is the lobby correspondent less important than a few years ago? The rise of the blogger and rolling political commentary is changing the way we consume political information. Once politicians carefully ‘briefed’ chosen correspondents. Do they still need to? And would they have an easier ride if there were fewer traditional political journalists?

Join some of the sharpest minds in journalism and academia as they tackle these vital questions around the quality and long term stability of political journalism.

15.30-17.00 ‘The end of local politics as we know it?’

Sponsored by The Journal of Local Government Studies

- Chair: Liz Richardson (University of Manchester)
- Participants: Professor Francesca Gains (University of Manchester), Professor Annette Hastings (University of Glasgow), Professor Peter John (UCL)

The aim of this session is to stimulate a critical debate on the future of local government, local public services and local public administration. Given the context of swinging public sector cuts, our session will debate whether this is the final body blow for local public institutions, and local government more broadly.

Speaker Biographies

SHAMI CHAKRABARTI
Conference Annual Dinner Speaker: 80 Years of Liberty - The Restless Spirit of Human Rights

Shami Chakrabarti has been Director of Liberty since September 2003. A Barrister by background, she worked as a lawyer in the Home Office from 1996 until 2001 for Governments of both persuasions. Since becoming Liberty’s Director she has written, spoken and broadcast widely about Liberty’s work on equality, human rights and the rule of law. She is Chancellor of Oxford Brookes University, Honorary Professor of Law at the University of Manchester, a Visiting Fellow of Nuffield College, Oxford and a Master of the Bench of Middle Temple. She was one of six independent assessors advising Lord Justice Leveson in his Public Inquiry into the Culture, Practice and Ethics of the UK Press.

PROFESSOR RON JOHNSTON

Professor Ron Johnston’s research has focused on three main areas: urban social geography, the recent history and nature of human geography and British electoral studies. Over the course of his career he has authored and edited over ninety books and written over eight hundred and fifty book chapters and articles.

Johnston’s career began at Monash where he took up successive roles as Teaching Fellow, Senior Teaching Fellow and then Lecturer. In 1967 he moved to the Department of Geography at the University of Canterbury where he became Lecturer, then Senior Lecturer and finally Reader. In 1974 he became Professor at the University of Sheffield, where he spent eighteen years before becoming Pro-Vice Chancellor for academic affairs. From 1992 he spent three years as Vice Chancellor at the University of Essex before moving in 1995 to his current post as Professor of Geography at the University of Bristol.

Johnston has received a number of awards including, in 2011, an OBE for his services to scholarship. The Royal Geographical Society has also twice recognised his work, first in 1985 with the Murchison Award and again in 1990 with the Victoria Medal. In 1999 he was elected Fellow of the British Academy and in 2010 obtained the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Association of American Geographers. In 2011 he was presented with the Political Studies Association’s Political Studies Communicator Award.
PROFESSOR BEVERLEY SKEGGS

Closing Plenary: Struggles for person value: accumulating, defending and resisting through class, gender and race

SANDI RUSSELL

A native New Yorker, Sandi Russell has sung with top jazz musicians on both sides of the Atlantic. To Lionel Hampton, she was an ‘extraordinary singer’, to Humphrey Lyttelton ‘hair-raising!’ Her recent albums have been praised by Jazz Improv (New York) for ‘a unique voice on the jazz scene’ and by the Musician (London) as ‘a master class in top-notch jazz’. Time Out (London) said: ‘A superb singer with a healthy dose of Ella and Carmen McRae in her sound’, and John Fordham, (Guardian) said, ‘A formidable vocal force, expat American Russell breathes new life into the most familiar materials’

Sandi will be accompanied on piano by Richard Wetherall.
Delegate Information

Delegate Badges
It is essential that delegates collect their conference packs and delegate badges from the reception desk on arrival at the conference. Delegates are required to wear their name badges at all times, for security reasons. You will not be allowed into a panel if you are not wearing the relevant delegate badge.

Annual Dinner
If you have booked for the Annual Dinner please ensure that you have collected your Annual Dinner ticket when you pick up your conference pack and badge. You will need to hand this ticket in on arrival at Manchester Town Hall. We have had problems in previous years with "gatecrashers" and for this reason and limited seating you must present your ticket at the door.

Twitter
If you’re interested in tweeting about the conference, the hashtag will be #psa14.

The Midland Hotel
Opened in September 1903, the hotel was built by the Midland Railway to serve Manchester Central railway station, its northern terminus for its rail services to London St. Pancras.

A Grade II listed building; the hotel was designed by Charles Trubshaw in a highly-individualistic Edwardian Baroque style.

The hotel was also where Charles Stewart Rolls met Frederick Henry Royce, leading to the formation of Rolls-Royce Limited in 1904.

PROFESSOR ANGELIA R. WILSON

Professor Angelia R. Wilson is currently working on a project entitled “Constructing social values as a political strategy: What are the strategies and mechanism by which the US Christian Right builds political constituencies?”, which includes interviews with Tea Party members and participant observation in over a dozen ‘grassroots’ gatherings such as the Values Voters Washington Briefing, the National Religious Broadcasters Convention, Exodus International and the Conservative Political Action Committee. She has published five books, most recently a survey of welfare capitalism in Why Europe is lesbian and gay friendly (and Why America never will be) (SUNY) and an edited volume Situating Intersectionality (Palgrave). Her research also appears in New Political Science, Politics & Religion, Politics & Gender, Contemporary Politics, Culture Health & Sexuality, Critical Social Policy, Sexualities and the American Review of Politics. She is an experienced political commentator appearing on BBC World Service, BBC One News, BBC Breakfast Show, The Big Question, CBBC Newsround and various BBC Radio programmes. She served on the American Political Science Association Executive Committee (2011-13), founded the APSA Sexuality & Politics Section, is the co-editor of Politics & Religion (Cambridge) and serves on the editorial board of Research & Politics (SAGE).

THE MANCHESTER TEAM

Dr Cristina Masters is a lecturer of International Politics at the University of Manchester. Her research focuses on the politics of violence in contemporary wars and the production of gendered subjectivities in the context of advanced technological weapons. She has published in the International Feminist Journal of Politics and Security and Dialogue and is currently working on research on drone warfare and the politics of killing.

Liz Richardson is a Senior Lecturer at the University of Manchester. She works extensively with practitioner and policy partners. Her work explores citizen mobilisation, civic participation, decentralised governance and accountability. Liz co-edits Local Government Studies, which celebrates its 40th anniversary in 2014.

Dr Richard Child joined the University of Manchester in 2012 as a Lecturer in Political Theory. He is currently working on the theory of distributive justice and on the relationship between legitimate authority and state punishment.

Dr Nick Turnbull is Lecturer in Politics at the University of Manchester. He researches political rhetoric, governance and public policy, and interpretive philosophies of social science. He is an authority on the contemporary philosopher Michel Meyer and his work on the philosophy of questioning, applied to the social sciences. He is co-convenor of the Interpretive Political Science specialist group of the PSA.

Politics at Manchester is a large, dynamic and inclusive Discipline Area located in the School of Social Sciences (SoSS), one of five schools in the Faculty of Humanities at the University of Manchester. The DA was created in the 2004-5 out of the former Department of Government. This change came about as a result of the creation of a new University bringing together the (Victoria) University of Manchester and UMIST. Politics at Manchester is one of the largest politics units in the European Union. It currently has 55 academic staff including 18 Professors, 10 Senior Lecturers and Readers, 20 Lecturers and 7 postdoctoral fellows.

Politics at Manchester is structured around three broad themes - Comparative Politics, International Politics and Political Theory. Below this level, we are organised into five clusters - Analytical Political Theory (aka MANCEPT), Comparative Public Policy, Electoral Politics, Global Political Economy and Poststructuralism and Critical Thought - and major interdisciplinary specialisms, such as Electoral Politics, Critical Security and Gender Politics.

This structure informs our undergraduate and postgraduate teaching, our research training, and our research. We aim to continuously develop and improve our teaching with a focus on the integration of the active research experience of staff and the development of independent research skills in students. At undergraduate level we offer a wide range of courses that build directly on research expertise, and our postgraduate community of approximately 150 MA students and over 60 PhD students provides a vibrant and varied environment.

In recent years, our strategic actions have delivered major success. Notably we have:

- Secured major prestigious grants including the 2015 British Election Study (shared with colleagues at Oxford and Nottingham), the European Research Council grant - Understanding Institutional Change: a gender perspective. We also secured grants supported by EU FP7, the Brooks World Poverty Institute, the ESRC, AHRC, EPSRC, Leverhulme, Nuffield, British Academy; and 28 international research fellowships.
- Produced over 20 research monographs and 20 edited collections and handbooks, more than 350 journal articles and 157 book chapters.
- Awarded 17 Academic Prizes for research excellence from international and national professional associations, universities and academic journals.
- Launched two new specialist journals (Peacekeeping and Twentieth Century Communism) and served as editors on 12 academic journals.
- Supervised the successful completion of 78 PhDs, 72% of whom secured academic posts either internationally or in the UK.

POLITICS AND THE CITY

The conference is located only a short distance from the heart of the city centre. The city of Manchester is one of the great European cities. Its architecture represents one of the high points of Victorian achievement. The modern city is a major centre of banking, commerce and manufacturing. It has a highly cosmopolitan atmosphere and its cultural and sporting life is internationally renowned.

Within fifteen minutes’ walk, there exist three outstanding professional theatre companies, the halls of the Hallé and Camerata orchestras, the Cornerhouse cinema, and Europe’s fastest-growing Chinatown. Ten minutes in the opposite direction is perhaps the best stretch of road in the entire country for Indian and Pakistani food. Amongst developments enriching the area’s cultural life in recent years have been the opening of the Lowry Centre at Salford Quays, the Imperial War Museum North across in Trafford and, more recently, the opening in Salford of MediaCityUK, the new base for an increasing amount of BBC and independent broadcast production.

Manchester’s political heritage makes it the perfect venue for the PSA Conference. The city can claim to be the heartland of the industrial revolution, the trade union congress and the Women’s Suffrage movement; the birthplace of vegetarianism, and Chartism. The city was the site of the writings of Marx and Engels and the Peterloo massacre, the essential setting for Fame is the Spur, Shameless, Queer as Folk and The Queen is Dead. Manchester is Politics and Politics is Manchester.

Redescriptions is unique in promoting ‘political thought’ as an approach which emphasises the contestability of concepts and the role of rhetoric in the study of ideas. The name Redescriptions refers to a rhetorical move that alters a concept in one respect or another. The journal publishes articles from many disciplines, including political theory, history of ideas, feminist scholarship, philosophy and beyond. Political thought in various forms, whether challenging in philosophical, historical or contemporary terms has found its place in the journal. Above all, Redescriptions is known as a journal for politically inspired theoretical and historical work and theoretically challenging political thought. The main focus of Redescriptions is in the interdisciplinary area of politics, political theory, history, feminist theory and philosophy.

Redescriptions features:
- Contributors have included leading scholars such as Quentin Skinner, Pierre Rosanvallon, Chantal Mouffe, Joan Scott, Frank Ankersmit, Nadia Urbinati, Patricia Springborg, Raymond Geuss, Wendy Brown, the late Reinhart Koselleck, Martti Koskenniemi, Risto Alapuro and Markku Peltonen
- Thought-provoking discussion and review articles

New Titles for Spring 2014

The Blair Supremacy
Lewis Minkin

The Blair Supremacy investigates the processes, methods, character and politics of party management during a period when Tony Blair strengthened his own position, thereby enabling himself and his allies to push through a ferment of new ideas and developments under the name ‘New Labour’.

Lewis Minkin is Visiting Honorary Professor in the School of Politics and International Studies at the University of Leeds. Lewis Minkin has immense experience of the Labour Party and has acted as adviser to two major internal reviews of the internal party organisation.

The European Debt Crisis
Costas Simitis

‘Costas Simitis has been one of the most pro-European political leaders in Greece. In this book he charts the dramatic story of the Greek crisis. This is a lesson for Europe, particularly to those who want economic growth based on solidarity and employment. This is an important book for all progressive forces within the European Union.’ (Massimo D’Alema, former Prime Minister of Italy)

The first English language translation of this investigation into the European debt crisis and the policy responses to combat it.

Written from the unique perspective of Costas Simitis, who served as Prime Minister of Greece for eight years and also served as President of the European Council in 2003. The book discusses Greece’s troubled political economy, its difficulties in adjusting to the demands of its creditors and the vehement reaction in the country to the policy of austerity.

Provides valuable insights into the crucial interconnection between Greece’s own economic troubles and the wider European search for macroeconomic stability and sustainable economic growth.

Child Migration and Human Rights in a Global Age
Jacqueline Bhabha

“Bhabha challenges the wisdom of current approaches to the protection of children in the context of migration. This book is a major contribution to the field. Never before has so much rich material been pulled together in a single, easily readable, and enticing volume that has the rights of children at its core.”
Susan L. Bissell, chief of child protection, UNICEF

Liberalism
The Life of an Idea
Edmund Fawcett

Focusing on the United States, Britain, France, and Germany, the book traces how the distinct traditions of these countries converged on the practice of liberal democracy. An enlightening account of a vulnerable but critically important political creed, liberalism will be a revelation for readers who think they already know - for good or ill - what liberalism is.

Global Population
History, Geopolitics, and Life on Earth
Alison Bashford

Concern about the size of the world’s population arose in the aftermath of World War I and was understood as an issue with far-reaching ecological, agricultural, economic, and geopolitical consequences. Global Population traces the idea of a world population problem, and shows how a geopolitical problem about sovereignty over land morphed into a biopolitical solution, entailing sovereignty over one’s person.

Losing Control?
Sovereignty in the Age of Globalization
Saskia Sassen

What determines the flow of labor and capital in this new global information economy? Who has the capacity to coordinate this new system, to create a measure of order? And what happens to territoriality and sovereignty, two fundamental principles of the modern state? Losing Control? is a major addition to our understanding of these questions.

The Arab Uprisings Explained
New Contentious Politics in the Middle East
Edited by Marc Lynch

In this volume, leading scholars in the field take a sharp look at the causes, dynamics, and effects of the Arab uprisings. Compiled by one of the foremost experts on Middle East politics and society, The Arab Uprisings Explained offers a fresh rethink of established theories and presents a new framework through which scholars and general readers can better grasp the fast-developing events remaking the region.

Sectarian Politics in the Gulf
From the Iraq War to the Arab Uprisings
Frederic M. Wehrey

"Wehrey’s new book offers a theoretically sophisticated and empirically rich overview of the politics of Sunni-Shiite relations across the Gulf. His extensive research on the ground across the Gulf comes through powerfully, as does his balanced analytical sensibility. It should be required reading for anyone interested in the regional politics of the Gulf”

Marc Lynch, Foreign Policy
