You are cordially invited to the

Routledge Politics PSA Reception

At the Political Studies Association 2011 Annual Conference

Wednesday 20th April 2011, 6.00-6.45pm
Champagne Suite, First Floor, Novotel London West Hotel

Meet the Editors of the above Journals at the reception.
A Word of Welcome

Dear Conference delegate

You are extremely welcome to this 61st Conference of the Political Studies Association, held in the UK capital. The recently refurbished Hammersmith Novotel hotel offers high quality conference facilities all under one roof. We are expecting well over 500 delegates, representing over 50 different countries. There are more than 190 panels, as well as the workshops on Monday, building on last year’s innovation, and as a new addition, dedicated posters sessions. There are also three receptions.

The Conference theme is ‘Transforming Politics: New Synergies’. Keynote speakers include Professor Carole Pateman, President of APSA, revisiting the concept of participatory democracy and Professor Iain McLean giving the Government and Opposition-sponsored Leonard Schapiro lecture on the subject of coalition and minority government. On Wednesday, our after-dinner speaker is Professor Tony Wright, (UCL and Birkbeck College) former MP and Chair of the Public Administration Select Committee. Amongst other highlights, Professor Vicente Palermo will discuss Anglo-Argentine relations and John Denham MP will talk on ‘English questions’ and the Labour Party’ and Sir Michael Aaronson, former Director General of Save the Children, will be drawing on his experience working in crisis situations to reflect on whether we had a choice in Libya today.

Despite the worsening economic and policy environment, this has been a particularly active and successful year for the Association. Overall membership figures, including those for the new Teachers’ Section, continue to rise. We have a new CEO and an office in London. The 60th Anniversary Awards event in November was an exceptionally glittering occasion while the joint PSA-Hansard lecture featuring the Deputy PM drew record attendance. In collaboration with the Institute for Government, a series of seminars on policy success, and media briefings on election-related themes, are helping to raise the profile of political studies. At the same time the Association has been defending and promoting the discipline’s interests for instance through its participation in the REF process, in ESRC consultations and in the recently-launched Campaign for Social Science.

Thanks for organising this year’s conference are especially due to the academic convenors – Drs Tereza Capelos, Maxine David, Roberta Guerrina and Simon Usherwood, to Sue Forster (Conference Organiser), Helena Djurkovic, Dr Jacqui Briggs and Professor Richard Topf. I should also like to thank Wiley-Blackwell, Routledge and Palgrave for their generous sponsorship.

This year’s programme promises plenty to interest, intellectually challenge and entertain. I hope your conference experience is thoroughly enjoyable

Government and Opposition
(Leonard Schapiro Memorial Lecture)

Professor Iain McLean
Chair – Dr Helen Thompson (Cambridge)

Lecture title: “England does not love coalitions” – the most misused political quotation in the book

The lecture begins by examining the context in which Benjamin Disraeli first used the title phrase in 1852. It does not mean what it says, nor can Disraeli have seriously intended it to.

The history of coalition governments and minority governments in the United Kingdom – including in its devolved territories – is then discussed. How anomalous was the coalition government formed in 2010?

Proceeding into comparative politics, the lecture reviews the growing literature on the political economy of electoral systems. In the light of this new literature, is Duverger’s Law still valid? And what can we conclude about the trade-off between government decisiveness and inclusiveness?

Iain McLean is Professor of Politics, Oxford University and a fellow of Nuffield College. His recent work has been on UK public policy, and applications of rational choice analysis to UK political history. Relevant publications include What’s Wrong with the British Constitution? (OUP 2010); State of the Union: unionism and the alternatives in the UK since 1707 (with Alistair McMillan, OUP 2005; winner of the WJM MacKenzie Prize); and Rational Choice and British Politics (OUP 2001).

Plenary Panels

Professor Carol Pateman
President – American Political Science Association

Carole Pateman is a distinguished Professor at the Department of Political Science, University of California, Los Angeles and Honorary Professor at the School of European Studies, Cardiff University. Since September 2010 she has been President of the American Political Science Association (APSA). In March 2010 she was awarded the title of Academician of the Council of the Academy of Social Sciences in the UK.

Her research interests are political theory, democratic theory, early modern theories of an original contract and contemporary contract theory, feminist theory, critical race theory, citizenship and the welfare state. She is the author of several books and numerous articles. Some of her key works are: Participation and Democratic Theory, The Problem of Political Obligation, The Sexual Contract, The Disorder of Women, Feminist Interpretations and Political Theory, Contract and Domination, Illusion of Consent: Engaging with Carole Pateman.

Martin Rosenbaum
Executive Producer, BBC Radio 4

Martin Rosenbaum is a political journalist and producer for the BBC, based in the BBC’s Political Programmes department at Westminster. He oversees some of the weekly and special political output on BBC Radio 4. He has produced numerous political documentaries on topics ranging from British identity through party finance to political comedy. He also specialises in the journalistic use of freedom of information.

Marcos Novaro

Marcos Novaro has a degree in sociology and a PhD in political philosophy from the University of Buenos Aires (UBA). He is currently Director of the Political History Program (PHP) at the Gino Germani Research Institute of the UBA and he is the President of CIPOL.org (Centro de Investigaciones Politicas/Center of Political Research). The PHP hosts the Oral History Archive (archivooral.org), with almost 200 interviews to Argentinean policymakers of the past three decades. He is a researcher of CONICET and a Professor of Political Theory at the Political Science department of the University of Buenos Aires.

Workshop Presenters and Biographies

Sir Michael Aaronson
Honorary Visiting Professor,
Department of Politics,
University of Surrey
From 1995-2005 Mike was Director General (chief executive) of Save the Children UK, and from 1988-1995 was the charity’s Overseas Director. He first joined Save the Children in 1969, spending two years as a relief worker in Nigeria after reading philosophy and psychology at St John’s College, Oxford. Between 1972 and 1988 he held various posts in the UK Diplomatic Service, serving in London, Paris, Lagos, and Rangoon.

He is now a Civil Service Commissioner, appointed by the Crown to maintain the principle of fair and open recruitment to the UK Civil Service. He is also Chairman of Frimley Park Hospital NHS Foundation Trust, and a non-executive director of Oxford Policy Management Limited, a development consultancy firm based in Oxford.

Mike is a founder member, and from 2001-2008 was Chair of the Board, of the Centre for Humanitarian Dialogue, a Geneva-based private foundation working to improve the international response to conflict, in particular through independent mediation. From 2001-2007 he was a Governor of the Westminster Foundation for Democracy in London, a non-departmental public body working to strengthen democracy in Africa, the Middle East, and the countries of the former Soviet Union; he was Vice Chair from 2005-2007.

In January 2004 Mike was elected a Visiting Fellow of Nuffield College, Oxford. In September 2008 he was appointed an Honorary Visiting Professor in the Department of Politics at the University of Surrey, where he teaches on the Masters programme on “The Politics of International Intervention”. He is also a Senior Concept Developer with NATO, working on the political/military aspects of NATO transformation, and is an occasional lecturer at the UK Defence Academy on civil/military collaboration in conflict situations.

Sue Cameron
Sue Cameron is a columnist for the Financial Times. She is a former presenter of BBC2’s Newsnight, of Channel Four News and of the ITN’s The Parliament Programme. Her notebook column appears on Wednesdays in the Financial Times providing an insider’s guide to the intrigues of Whitehall.

Nadine Smith
Head of Communications,
Institute for Government
Nadine Smith’s career began in local radio news. Since then she has had extensive experience of working in Whitehall communications departments. She also led the PR functions for three major public inquiries and completed an MA in Journalism. Most recently she was Chief Press Officer and then Head of Strategic Media Campaigns at the Cabinet Office.

Professor Archie Brown, CMG, FBA
After teaching for thirty-four years at St Antony’s College, Archie Brown became Emeritus Professor of Politics at Oxford University and an Emeritus Fellow of St Antony’s from 1 October 2005. He continues to pursue an active programme of research and writing. Professor Brown was elected a Fellow of the British Academy in 1991 and was Chair of the Academy’s Political Studies Section, 1999-2002. He was chosen as a founding academician of the Academy of Learned Societies for the Social Sciences in 1999 and in 2003 he was elected a Foreign Honorary Member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. In 2005 he was awarded a CMG in the Queen’s Birthday Honours list ‘for services to UK-Russian relations and to the study of political science and international affairs’. In 2010 he received one of the three Diamond Jubilee Lifetime Achievement in Political Studies Awards. He also won the WJM MacKenzie Prize twice; the first time for this book The Gorbachev Factor (Oxford University Press) and the second time for his book The Rise and Fall of Communism (Bodley Head, 2009; Vintage paperback, 2010). The Gorbachev Factor (1997) also shared the Alec Nove Prize, awarded by the British Association for Slavonic and East European Studies, for the best book/article on Russia, Communism or Postcommunism.

Baroness Parminter
Liberal Democrat working peer and
Former Chief Executive of the Campaign to Protect Rural England
Kate Parminter was created a life peer in 2010. Prior to joining the House of Lords, she held a number of high level positions in Public Affairs. Particularly important was her six years tenure as Chief Executive of the Campaign to Protect Rural England. Between 1987 and 1995 she also held a seat as Liberal Democrat Councillor for Horsham District Council. She has been a member of the Liberal Democrats’ South East Region Executive and is now a member of the Liberal Democrats’ Federal Executive Committee and the Federal Finance and Administration Committee. In 2008 she was appointed by Nick Clegg to the Party Reform Commission.

He has also held visiting positions at the EU Institute of Security Studies (Paris), the IISS (London) as well as the Department of Politics, University of Stirling (Scotland). He is the author of numerous articles on Russia’s foreign policy interactions and the EU-Russia relationship and his most recent work is a 2010 monograph with Routledge: The EU-Russia: Strategic Partnership: The Limits of Post-Sovereignty in International Relations.

Dr Tatiana Romanova
Tatiana Romanova is an associate professor at the School of International Relations of St. Petersburg State University and a leading expert of the Centre for Comprehensive European and International Studies of the High School of Economics (Moscow). She currently lectures on EU-Russian Relations; History and Theory of the European Integration, Institutions and Structures of the European Union, Current Aspects of the EU’s Energy Policy, EU’s External Activities, and Political Economy of European Integration. Her research interests include EU-Russian relations, particularly issues of legal approximation, energy dialogue and economic relations; EU’s institutions, structures and lobbying activities; economic and legal integration and peculiarities of the EU’s relations with neighbouring countries.

Professor Phil Cowley
University of Nottingham
A specialist in British politics, Professor Cowley’s work focuses predominantly on parties, voting and Parliament. He is Professor of Parliamentary Government at the University of Nottingham. He has recently completed a research project on Backbench dissent in the House of Commons, which looked at the behaviour of MPs in the 2001-05 Parliament. He has recently published (with Dennis Kavanagh) The British General Election 2010, the latest volume in this long standing project.

Professor Marie Breen-Smyth
Professor Marie Breen-Smyth was recently appointed to a Chair in International Politics at the University of Surrey. She has written and researched political violence including its impact on civilian populations. Her interests in international intervention include processes of militarization and demilitarization, transitional justice, armed conflict and children. Her regional interests include South Africa, Israel/Palestine, Northern Ireland and the former Yugoslavia. One of the leading scholars in the field of critical terrorism studies, Professor Breen-Smyth is a founding editor of the Taylor and Francis journal Critical Terrorism Studies.

Dr Louise Perrotta
Head of the Lessons Team, Stabilisation Unit
Dr Perrotta is currently the Head of the Lessons Team in the UK Stabilisation Unit. This is a cross-departmental unit established to improve UK capacity to respond in complex, conflict affected environments and to develop an integrated approach. Prior to joining the Stabilisation Unit, she was Conflict and Rule of Law Advisor to Conflict Group in FCO and was Governance Advisor to the Conflict Group in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) and Advisor to the Department for International Development (DFiD) – Afghanistan between 2004 and 2006.

During his time in the House of Commons he chaired a number of committees including, the Public Administration Committee, the Select Committee on Reform of the House of Commons (the Wright Committee). In 2009 he won the Political Studies Association Parliamentarian of the Year Award. Prior to entering political life, he was Reader in British Political Thought at the University of Birmingham. He has written extensively on the civil service, accountability and British political thought. He is author or editor of over twenty books, including the best-selling British Politics: A Very Short Introduction. Finally, he is co-editor of The Political Quarterly.
Delegate Information

Delegate Badges
It is essential that delegates collect their conference packs and delegate badges from the reception desk on arrival at the conference. Delegates are required to wear their name badges at all times, for security reasons and for catering identification. You will not be allowed into a panel if you are not wearing the relevant delegate badge.

Annual Dinner
If you have booked for the Annual Dinner please ensure that you have collected your Annual Dinner ticket when you pick up your conference pack and badge. You will need to hand this ticket in on entering the Champagne Suite. We have had problems in previous years with "gatecrashers" and for this reason and limited seating you must present your ticket at the door.

Dr Maxine David lectures in International Politics at the Department of Politics, University of Surrey. Her research interests include Foreign Policy Analysis and the foreign policies of the EU, Russia and the United Kingdom. She is co-editor and author on an EU-Russia project, mapping the EU Member States bilateral relations with Russia and analysing the impact of bilateralism on the EU. Selected chapters will be published in a Special Issue of Journal of Contemporary European Studies (forthcoming June 2011) and full results should be published in an edited collection in 2012. Publications include: ‘A Less than Special Relationship: the UK’s Russia Experience’ in Journal of Contemporary European Studies (forthcoming June 2011); ‘Exploiting Marginality: The Case of Russia’ (2008) in N Parker (ed) The Geopolitics of Europe’s Identity: Centers, Boundaries and Margins, Palgrave.

Dr Tereza Capelos is a specialist in political psychology, electoral behavior, and public opinion with a particular interest in American Politics. She holds a PhD in Political Science and Electoral Behaviour, and her current research examines the determinants of candidate evaluations and impression formation, reputation management, political scandals and accountability, the role of affect and emotions in politics, political tolerance, political knowledge, mass media and civic competence. She has extensive experience in survey research methodology as well as applied data analysis, experimental design, and content analysis. She is currently work-package co-ordinator on an FP7 framework programme project: Processes Influencing Democratic Ownership and Participation. Publications include: ‘Feeling the Issue: Citizens’ affective reactions and leadership perceptions on policy evaluations’, Journal of Political Marketing (2010); ‘United Nations Scandals and Media Coverage’, Journal of Contingencies and Crisis Management, (2009) with H Wurtzer; and multiple chapters in Encyclopaedia of Political Science (EPS). George T. Kurian (ed), CQ Press (2010).

Dr Roberta Guerrina is Head of the Department of Politics at the University of Surrey. She is a European policy analyst with a particular interest in European social policy, citizenship policy and gender equality. A specialist in gender politics and feminist theories, she has published widely in the area of women’s human rights, work-life balance, identity politics and the idea of Europe. She is currently leading the policy analysis work package on the European Commission funded FP7 PIDOP: Processes Influencing Democratic Ownership and Participation amongst traditionally marginal groups (women, youth, migrants and minorities). She is also author of Mothering the Union (Manchester University Press, 2005) and Europe: History, Ideas and Ideologies (Arnold, 2002). She is a member of the women and politics working group, and organised the PSA Women and Politics Working Group Annual Conference in 2008.

Department of Politics, University of Surrey

The Department of Politics is a dynamic and growing department. It is a thriving community of students and scholars with an interest in the complex set of interactions that define global politics in the 21st century. Building on the excellent reputation of the University in the field of European studies and politics, the Department is now expanding its provisions in the area of International Politics. Keen to establish links with practitioners and policy making communities, the new research agenda of the Department focuses on two key areas: 1. the politics of international intervention; 2. EU Politics. Hosting the interdisciplinary Centre for Research on Nationalism, Ethnicity and Multiculturalism (CRONEM), we have developed and contributed to a range of externally funded projects on European citizenship, diasporas and the politics of the media. In addition to this, we also engage in avant-garde research on gender politics, opposition to the EU, political participation, political violence, FPA and the War on Terror.

Rational Theory of International Politics
The Logic of Competition and Cooperation
Charles L. Glaser
Within the realist school of international relations, a prevailing view holds that the anarchic structure of the international system invariably forces the great powers to seek security at one another's expense. Rational Theory of International Politics offers a more nuanced alternative to this view.

Theories of International Politics and Zombies
Daniel W. Drezner
What would happen to international politics if the dead rose from the grave and started to eat the living? Daniel Drezner's groundbreaking book answers the question that other international relations scholars have been too scared to ask. Addressing timely issues with analytical bite, Drezner looks at how well-known theories from international relations might be applied to a war with zombies.

No Enchanted Palace
The End of Empire and the Ideological Origins of the United Nations
Mark Mazower
A much-needed historical reappraisal of the early development of this vital world institution, No Enchanted Palace reveals how the UN outgrew its origins and has exhibited an extraordinary flexibility that has enabled it to endure to the present day.
"The finest historian of twentieth-century Europe."--Jonathan Keates, Times Literary Supplement

The Clash of Ideas in World Politics
Transnational Networks, States and Regime Change, 1510-2010
John M. Owen IV
The Clash of Ideas in World Politics reveals how the Muslim world is in the throes of an ideological struggle that extends far beyond the Middle East, and how struggles like it have been a recurring feature of international relations since the dawn of the modern European state.

The Weary Titan
Britain and the Experience of Relative Decline, 1895-1905
Aaron L. Friedberg
How do statesmen become aware of unfavorable shifts in relative power, and how do they seek to respond to them? As national decline has become an increasingly prominent theme in American political debate, these questions have also taken on an immediate, pressing significance. The Weary Titan is a penetrating study of a similar controversy in Britain at the turn of the twentieth century.

The Blame Game
Spin, Bureaucracy and Self-Preservation in Government
Christopher Hood
Political and bureaucratic blame games and blame avoidance are more often condemned than analyzed. In The Blame Game, Christopher Hood takes a different approach by showing how blame avoidance shapes the workings of government and public services. The Blame Game proves how a better understanding of blame avoidance can improve the quality of modern governance.
