PSA Annual Assembly

Tuesday 16 April 2019

Bowden Room, Nottingham Conference Centre

The Annual Assembly is an opportunity for members to participate in setting the future priorities of YOUR Association. Members are encouraged to submit questions, concerns and ideas at this open forum.

This is an exciting time for the PSA! The past year has included acquiring and moving into new office premises, launching a new website, curating topical events in partnership with the British Library and increased activities in education, publications and with our specialist groups.

The PSA Trustees look forward to talking with you at the Annual Assembly!

17.00 - 18.00    Annual Assembly

18.00 - 18.30    Annual Assembly Drinks Reception

Welcome to Nottingham!

Dear Conference Delegate,

I am delighted to welcome you to Nottingham for this 69th Annual Conference of the Political Studies Association (PSA). We are expecting up to 800 participants with the conference continuing to evolve and innovate and hopefully achieving a quite rare combination of quality and quantity.

The PSA conference offers academic researchers from across the discipline the opportunity to share their research, constructively challenge each other's findings and hone best practice. The PSA Conference continues to grow each year and is a leading international annual conference in the discipline. The theme this year, '(Un)sustainable Politics in a Changing World', brings together leading academics from across the world to consider the current state (crisis?) of politics, democracy, elections, political leadership and representation. I'm sure you will have your own favourites on this wide-ranging programme, but allow me to draw your attention to a few highlights.

Wondering what's the latest from Westminster? Don't miss the Monday keynote by the Rt. Hon. John Bercow MP, Speaker of the House of Commons, reflecting on "Politics in an Anti-Politics Age". Please do also join us for the annual conference drinks reception afterwards. For the latest on Brexit, earlier in the day, come along to "Explaining Brexit: 'Known Knowns' and Unanticipated Consequences" panel, including the Rt. Hon. Kenneth Clarke, QC MP, Father of the House of Commons. The Annual Dinner features a Q&A with Kamal Ahmed, Editorial Director of BBC News, and so for those attending please come armed with topical questions and discussion points!

The PSA is absolutely delighted to welcome Professor Cynthia Enloe as our keynote speaker on Tuesday. Her topic, "Boys Don't Always Have to be Boys: The Local and Global Politics of Exposing and Challenging Patriarchal Impunity", presents attendees with a rare opportunity to learn from one of the leading international relations experts in the world. Awareness of privilege within the profession and the challenges that poses to inclusivity is a theme of a number of panel discussions. The new PSA Race, Migration and Intersectionality Specialist Group launches on Monday with a discussion on "Britain's Ethnic Minorities' Political Participation and Representation". There are roundtables on "Gender and the Profession"; "The Politics of Recognition and Recognition of Politics Speakers"; and a public event on Sunday which asks the question, "Is it Time to Lower the Voting Age to 16?".

In November the PSA launched the Diverse Voices Doctoral Scholarship Fund and the Monday morning plenary offers attendees the opportunity to feed into the work of the Diverse Voices Chair's Commission. In order to develop a profession inclusive of diverse voices, we need to think about how we encourage a range of GCSE and A-Level students to study Politics at university, how we nurture and support undergraduate and graduate students from diverse backgrounds as well as how we as an organization can set aspirational goals for scholarship fund raising. We welcome all attendees who are concerned about inclusivity in the study of politics as well as the profession to come along to this discussion.

On Tuesday morning, all those involved in departmental leadership are invited to a networking breakfast to share plans for professional development and outreach activities and discuss upcoming opportunities for collaboration. For those just starting out in the profession, the PSA Early Career Network invites you to a reception and social event on Tuesday evening.

With the REF looming, and careers increasingly defined by research outputs, this conference offers you ample opportunity to engage with various journal editors, including the always popular "Meet the Editors" Roundtable on Tuesday morning sponsored by the PSA Early Career Network. All four PSA journals are hosting panels featuring some of the best work published this year and I'm sure all the editors would be happy to chat with you about article placement and offer publishing advice.

As engaged members of the PSA who care about the future of the organization and your role in it, I invite you to attend the PSA Annual Assembly. With the purchase of a new office space in Camden, the launch of the new PSA website and new membership outreach, the PSA has had a very busy year. The Annual Assembly is your opportunity to help us plan for next year and to ensure that we are providing quality membership services to support all those across the profession. Those in attendance will be offered a drink in order to toast the end of a successful year and the exciting opportunities in our future!

What a fantastic conference programme! I am immensely grateful to our conference convenors at Nottingham Trent University, Dr Marianna Poberezhskaya and Dr Imad El-Anis, as well as Avnish Patel (PSA Events & Marketing Manager) and the rest of the PSA staff for their unbelievably hard work. I know you will thank them yourselves when you see them at the conference, or even buy them a drink! If you see me, or any of the PSA Trustees, please do come up and say hello! We hope you have a great conference.

Sincerely,

Professor Angela Wilson
Chair, Political Studies Association of the UK

Academic Convenors' Details

DR MARIANNA POBEREZHSKAYA

Dr Marianna Poberezhskaya is a Lecturer in Politics and International Relations in the Department of Politics and International Relations at Nottingham Trent University. She received her PhD in Politics and IR from the University of Nottingham (2013) which was followed by a Postdoctoral Lecturing Fellowship at the University of East Anglia. Marianna's primary area of expertise is climate change policy and environmental communication in the post-Soviet space. She is particularly interested in the way the states are able to shape climate change discourse in the region. Marianna has extensive experience of building relationships with a range of stakeholders, including policy-makers, scholars, environmental activists and representatives of the major international organisations. Marianna was recently awarded a British Council Researcher Links Grant for organising an international workshop on 'Sustainable Energy and Climate Change in Russia: Policies, Discourses and Narratives'. She is the author of a monograph, Communicating Climate Change in Russia: State and Propaganda (Routledge, 2016) and a co-editor of Climate Change Discourse in Russia (Routledge Focus, 2018). Marianna has published numerous research articles in journals such as Environmental Communication, Global Environmental Change, Public Understanding of Science and East European Politics. She is currently working on a project exploring climate change narratives in Central Asia.

DR IMAD EL-ANIS

Dr Imad El-Anis is a Senior Lecturer in International Relations in the Department of Politics and International Relations at Nottingham Trent University. His current research focuses on several aspects of the political economy of the Middle East and North Africa, including economic integration and political cooperation in the region, energy security and nuclear energy proliferation, freshwater scarcity and foreign policy and economic neoliberalism and public dissent. His work is most closely associated with critical versions of liberal institutionalism, commercial institutional peace theory, and small states theory. He is the author of Jordan and the United States: The Political Economy of Trade and Economic Reform in the Middle East (Tauris Academic Studies, 2011). He has also co-authored several books including A New A-Z of International Relations Theory (I.B. Tauris 2015); and International Political Economy in the 21st Century: Contemporary Issues and Analyses, 2nd ed. (Routledge, 2017). He has authored numerous research articles for international outlets including Cambridge Review of International Affairs and Journal of Developing Societies and several book chapters for leading publishing houses including Palgrave Macmillan and Routledge. Imad is currently writing a monograph on the political economy of Jordan. He appears regularly as an expert on Middle Eastern affairs in major international media.

Welcome from the Department of Politics and International Relations at Nottingham Trent University.

The Department of Politics and International Relations is delighted to welcome you to the 69th Annual International Conference of the Political Studies Association of the UK. Politics and International Relations have been taught for some years at NTU, but the Department bringing these two subjects together was only formed in 2012. Since its formation, the Department has grown in size and currently has 24 academic staff, 430 undergraduate students and a growing number of taught post-graduate and PhD students. The Department has a strong track record of excellence in teaching with high student satisfaction at both undergraduate and post-graduate levels. NSS overall satisfaction for undergraduate courses in the Department in 2018 averaged 92% and at taught masters level 95%. The Department is keen to develop its research capacity and has strengths in two distinct areas - Citizenship & Democracy and International Security. The Citizenship, Democracy and Transformation research group brings staff together who are exploring challenges facing contemporary democracies especially as these challenges relate to young people, environmental concerns and/or gender equality. The International Security and Sustainability research group examines a range of issues relating to security such as: terrorism, energy security, female security, resource scarcity, democracy (and the threats to it), political violence, nuclear technology proliferation, human security, migration, refugees and displaced people, climate change and related environmental issues, insurgency and civil wars and radicalisation and counter-radicalisation. The Department has recently launched a fully online distance learning Masters' course in International Relations and is currently developing new undergraduate and post-graduate provision in the areas of international security and public policy.

The rapid and unpredictable change currently taking place in the world of politics within the UK, Europe and further afield, alongside our research interests in young people and political engagement, climate change, gender politics, terrorism and radicalisation, informed our conference theme of (Un)sustainable Politics in a Changing World. We hope that you enjoy the plenary sessions and conference papers as well as the many additional activities offered on the conference programme. On behalf of Marianna, Imad and all staff in the Department, I warmly welcome you to the PSA's Annual International Conference 2019.

See page 15 - 16 for venue maps

Twitter

If you're interested in tweeting about the conference the hashtag will be #PSA19. Follow us @PolStudiesAssoc.

Conference App

The PSA Annual Conference app is now available to download, allowing you to access the full schedule and build your own personal conference itinerary.

1. Download the Ex Ordo app on your phone from either the App Store (iOS) or the Google Play Store (Android)
2. The installation process will take a few minutes. Once the app is installed, click the Ex Ordo icon that now appears on your phone screen.
3. You can now search for the guide. To find the guide type in 'PSA 2019' into the search box
4. If you would like to receive notifications from the conference organisers and interact with other users of the guide you will have to log in. NOTE: You have to create a new account for logging into the guide (your Ex Ordo credentials won't be recognised in the mobile app when you try to log in).

Accessibility

The NCC has achieved the CredAble Provider mark and all rooms and facilities are accessible by wheelchair via ramps, lifts and power assisted doors. Elements such as lift buttons are also rendered in braille and mobility impaired delegates also have their own personal evacuation plan, so they are taken care of in the event of an emergency.

- Stairs to all floors are accessed from the Newton Forum.
- Lifts to all floors are at the far end of the Newton Forum. There are six lifts, A - F. To call a lift, press the level number you require and wait for the lift letter to show on the display panel. Once inside the lift, the level(s) where it will stop are shown on display strips by the doors. To activate the visual and auditory lift announcement press the wheelchair logo followed by the level required.
- Note: The main Goldsmith Street entrance/exit is on Level 1
- Attendees should advise the PSA of any specific access requirements; all venues will be happy to go through their emergency arrangements in more detail, if requested.

Audio-Visual Equipment & Support

- All rooms have presenter consoles with integrated PCs. We recommend using a USB/Pen Drive to upload your presentations, but you can also connect using your own laptop.
- All conference rooms are fitted with either wall-mounted flatscreens or ceiling-mounted digital projectors/screens which are linked to a lectern with HDMI and VGA connections for your laptop.
- It is recommended that presenters bring their own VGA, HDMI, Mac adaptors, power cables, phone chargers and international power adaptors.
- There will be dedicated onsite support from an IT/AV technician and conference assistants will be on hand during the conference.

Presenting a Paper or Chairing a Panel?

- All panel participants should arrive at their scheduled room at least 10 minutes before the session commences to ensure that everyone is ready to start promptly.
- Please refer to the AV Equipment & Support section for further details regarding venue facilities. All presentations should be uploaded in advance of the panel commencing.
- Panel sessions will run for 90 minutes and should be structured to allow a maximum of 60 minutes for all presentations, plus at least 30 minutes for discussion and audience questions. Some panels will feature discussants and panel chairs should ensure that they have 5 minutes to speak, with opportunity for responses.
- The vast majority of panels have three or four papers, providing paper-givers a maximum of 15-20 minutes to present (but panel chairs should adjust accordingly).
- Some panels will have fewer papers and so will have longer for each presentation and/or questions.
- Panel chairs should also factor in time for arrivals, introductions, switching between presentations whilst also ensuring paper-givers stick to their allocated time.

Exhibitors

Publishers will be exhibiting during the conference in the Newton Forum. Please take the time to visit the stands. Tea and coffee will be served here during the refreshment breaks.

See page 17 for further information

Cloakroom Facilities

- The Potter Room (Level 1) at the NCC is available as a cloakroom throughout the conference.
- Please note that attendees leave personal items in cloakroom areas entirely at their own risk - Nottingham Conference Centre, Nottingham Trent University and the PSA accept no responsibility for items which are lost or damaged.

Conference Dinner

This year's dinner will be held at St Mary's Church on Tuesday 16th April from 19:00. You will have been sent a confirmation email if you purchased a ticket. Due to problems in previous years with 'gatecrashers' please do not turn up if you have not purchased a ticket. Please inform PSA staff of any dietary requirements or allergies if you have not done so already.

PSA Anti-Harassment and Discrimination Policy

The PSA is committed to providing a welcoming professional environment in which everyone is treated with dignity and respect, regardless of sex, gender, sexual orientation, race, religion, age or disability. The PSA recognises a shared responsibility of attendees to establish and uphold that environment for the benefit of all. Harassment of conference participants undermines the principles of equality, diversity and freedom of expression at the foundations of our conference and constitutes professional misconduct.

What constitutes harassment?

Harassment is “unwanted conduct related to a protected characteristic which has the purpose (intentional) or effect (unintentional) of violating a person’s dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating, or offensive environment for that individual.”

Unprofessional behaviour that violates the PSA’s Code of Conduct may include, but is not limited to:

- Inappropriate actions or comments related to a protected characteristic including sex, gender, sexual orientation, race, religion or belief, age or disability
- Sexual harassment or intimidation (including unwelcome sexual attention, pressure to engage in unwanted sexual activity, physical or virtual stalking, and sexual assault including unwelcome touching or groping)
- Threatening speech or actions (including threats of physical harm and professional reputational damage)

How do I report an incident?

Incidents can be reported in person or by email (codeofconduct@psa.ac.uk).

The PSA has two options through which participants can pursue a complaint:

Stage 1. Notice

If you do not wish to enter into a formal complaint and investigation process, then the PSA can issue a notice. In this case, the PSA will contact the person who is the subject of the complaint, inform them a complaint has been made, and remind them of the PSA’s anti-harassment policy. No further action will be taken. All parties will be treated with strict confidentiality.

Stage 2. Formal Complaint

A formal complaint should be made in writing and include full details of the incident(s). An investigation will be conducted in every case where a formal complaint is made. Further guidance on submitting a formal complaint and what happens next is available in the full anti-harassment policy and from PSA staff/trustees.

In all cases, the PSA will make every effort to protect complainants from retaliation.

If the PSA considers that there is a risk of immediate physical harm or danger, we will act to ensure the safety of conference participants regardless of whether a formal complaint is pursued.

This policy applies to everyone attending conference (including delegates, staff, exhibitors, and all other attendees) and to all conference venues and events (including formal meetings and social events).

Nothing in this policy shall be construed as a restriction on the ability of PSA members and conference participants to constructively critique one another’s work, unless this intersects with the above.

The full policy is available on the PSA website.

PSA Policy on Free Speech and Conduct at Meetings

An increasing number of events jointly or singly organized by the PSA are open to the general public. These include lectures/discussions, specialist group events, student & teacher focused events, public events, media briefings, public lectures as well as the PSA annual conference, etc.

The Political Studies Association has in place a code of conduct and anti-harassment policy for its members. However, this policy does not explicitly cover situations where attendees may wish to demonstrate or carry out a protest. These policies will apply to all attendees.

Expectations of all event participants

These expectations include:

- Not interrupting or heckling or verbally abusing invited speakers or contributors from the audience.
- Respecting the authority of the event chair who will try to allow as many people to participate as possible.
- Not recording in audio and/or visual form any PSA event without the express prior permission of the PSA.
- Continued non-compliance following a warning may lead to PSA staff, trustees or venue security staff asking the individual(s) concerned to leave the premises.

The PSA will make clear to all those participating that civility and courtesy is expected from them at all times. The chair, convenor or host of the event will deal with any breaches of these expectations and will have the full support of the PSA in doing so.

Freedom of expression

In February 2019 the Equality and Human Rights Commission produced 'Freedom of expression: a guide for higher education providers and students' unions in England and Wales':

www.equalityhumanrights.com/sites/default/files/freedom-of-expression-guide-for-higher-education-providers-and-students-unions-england-and-wales.pdf

While this only applies to England and Wales and to activities taking place within higher education institutions, the PSA will, where appropriate, make reference to this guidance in relation to its own position on free speech at PSA events.

Protests and demonstrations

Disruptive behaviour includes, but is not limited to, purposely blocking the view of others at an event; noise or action that disrupts the ability of the audience to hear or disrupting essential operations at the event.

Anyone who wishes to stage a demonstration or protest at any PSA event should contact the PSA office in advance for approval and to discuss any operational and safety issues. The PSA will use its professional judgement, taking into account all relevant circumstances and the need for a range of opinions to be heard, in deciding whether to allow a demonstration or protest to proceed.

Political Studies Association Specialist Groups

The PSA's 59 Specialist Groups provide a research focus for members covering a vast range of fields within the discipline and act as an important vehicle for connecting with academics, policy-makers and practitioners in the UK and beyond. As the beating heart of the Association, Specialist Groups are playing a central role in Nottingham, convening over 100 panels at this year's conference.

PSA Specialist Groups

PSA SPECIALIST GROUP MEETINGS

Outside of the PSA Annual Conference, Specialist Groups are busy year-round providing networking opportunities to members, running their own workshops and conferences, supporting early career academics, publishing blogs and journals and collaborating on research. Joining a Specialist Group is a fantastic way to get more involved with the PSA and network with fellow academics.

If you'd like to know more about a group or get involved then please do drop in to a Specialist Group meeting, which will be held during the lunch breaks at PSA Conference:

The PSA Early Career Network in Nottingham

*ECN Committee Members
Joe Greenwood (right) after the Demystifying Early Career Academia event in Manchester, March 2019*

The PSA Early Career Network (ECN), which replaced the former Postgraduate Network in 2016, aims to support all postgraduate, postdoctoral and early career academics within the PSA. Since its launch, the ECN has gone from strength to strength. Its current elected committee (Sumedh Rao, Joe Greenwood, Alexandra Bulat, Ellie Martus and Nick Dickinson) have been working to continue and extend the fantastic work of the previous committee and promote the interests of those academics who share in the precarious character of a life entering academia, through a lively programme of events and opportunities.

The Network is committed to investing in the postgraduate and early career pipeline, encouraging equality and diversity, and strengthening academic networks across career stages. The ECN has lined up a series of events in Nottingham which attendees from all professional backgrounds and career stages are encouraged to attend:

WELCOME BREAKFAST

Monday 15th April,
08:30 - 09:15, Old Chemistry
Theatre, NCC

The ECN are delighted to welcome so many early career academics to the PSA Conference. We are aware that for many of you, this may be your first international conference. To help you get some quick-fix answers about how to navigate the conference, we have teamed up with the PSA's Membership Committee to host this welcome breakfast. Pastries and refreshments will be accompanied by the sage wisdom of PSA trustees and seasoned conference goers. We look forward to seeing you there!

ECN SPEED MENTORING

Tuesday 16th April, 12:30 -
13:30, Hooley Room, NCC

After the success of previous years, the ECN speed mentoring session returns. At this event you will have the opportunity to network with, and ask for feedback/advice from senior scholars in the discipline. Participants will sit for 5 minutes at a time with each mentor before circulating. Come prepared with questions about CVs, publishing, the job market, collaboration, impact, REF and TEF, and general life in academia!

PUBLISHING ROUNDTABLE: MEET THE EDITORS

Tuesday 16th April,
09:30 - 11:00,
Lecture Theatre 2,
NCC

The ECN is acutely aware that the mystic world of publishing and the 'pressure to publish' are the source of great anxiety for early career academics. Chaired by ECN Chair Sumedh Rao, this roundtable aims to demystify the process and answer your questions about how and where to get published. Colleagues - both junior and senior - are invited to hear editors from journals answer questions directly related to publishing as an early career academic. If you're not sure how to 'target' a journal, tick the right boxes for editors, deal with rejections, respond to reviewers' comments, make comments as a reviewer, or stay ahead of the curve, then this is the event for you.

ECN DRINKS RECEPTION & TALK

Tuesday 16th April, 18.00 - 19.15,
Old Chemistry Theatre, NCC

In keeping with tradition, the ECN would like to welcome its members - and academics at all stages of their career - to a reception on the second evening of the conference. Drinks will be provided and you will get the opportunity to meet colleagues in the discipline from across the country and beyond.

ECN ALTERNATIVE SOCIAL

Tuesday 16th April,
19:30 onwards, The Angel
Freehouse & Microbrewery

The ECN looks forward to welcoming you to our third annual alternative social. For those of you who are unable to attend the main (ticketed) conference dinner, the ECN is hosting an alternative social event for academics at all stages of their career. The ECN has reserved a private space at the Angel Freehouse & Microbrewery, a venue in the heart of the city and only a short walk from the conference venue. The Angel is a Nottingham landmark and has great food and drink, as well as vegan, vegetarian and meat versions of nearly all dishes, offering creative and tasty plant-based alternatives to traditional pub fare. One of the only pubs where you can choose to have fish, vegetarian or vegan fish and chips!

Mental Health and Wellbeing at the PSA Conference

Mental health refers to our emotional, psychological, and social well-being. It affects how we think, feel, and act, and helps determine how we handle stress, relate to others and make choices. Just as everyone has physical health that can become unwell sometimes, we all have mental health too.

Lots of people are affected by poor mental health – each year, approximately 1 in 4 people in the UK will experience a mental health issue. For those in academia, this figure is unfortunately even higher – research from RAND Europe found that 37% of academics reported that they were living with a mental health problem, with job insecurity, stress, and increased workloads cited as some of the main contributing factors.

Academic conferences are often very busy, stressful environments which can exacerbate some mental health problems. Though not a long-term solution, taking some time to unwind can help improve individual wellbeing, so the PSA has organised a programme of free activities across the three days of Annual Conference to help attendees de-stress:

Wellbeing Room (Knight Room, Level 3, NCC)

A quiet space available for attendees throughout conference (please note that this will be in use for the activities during the lunchtime sessions below). Please do not use this room to conduct meetings!

Access to NTU Sports

We are delighted that NTU Sports are providing conference attendees access to gym, fitness classes and sports facilities from 07:00 - 21:00, 15 - 17 April at a discounted day rate of £5 per person. Please see p. 25 for further details and class times.

A Short Introduction to Mindfulness

Lunchtime talk by Esther Triffitt, Nottingham Trent University
(Monday 15 April, 11:30 - 12:30, Knight Room - lunch provided).

Lunchtime Yoga and Mindfulness Session (all abilities welcome)

Tuesday 16 April and Wednesday 17 April, 12:30 - 13:30, Knight Room.

On Site Massage Therapy

Sarah Allen, a qualified head and shoulder massage therapist from Hands on at Work, will be on site to provide acupressure massage treatments. These are delivered 'over clothing' and using a portable massage chair, helping attendees to refocus and feel refreshed (Monday 15 April and Tuesday 16 April, 12:00 - 13:30, Newton Forum; 13:45 - 17:00, Knight Room).

Running Club (all abilities welcome)

PSA trustee Matt Wood invites conference attendees to participate – meet at the entrance to the Crowne Plaza Hotel (Wollaton St) at 07:30 on Tuesday 16th April for a 5k run.

Positivity Wall

Studies have shown that actively practicing mindfulness and gratitude for the small things has a positive effect on mental wellbeing – so come and take a moment to reflect and add a note to our Positivity Wall (Level 0, NCC).

The PSA recognises that while these activities can often help to improve wellbeing and alleviate symptoms of poor mental health, they are of course not a solution to the underlying causes behind mental health problems. The PSA is committed to working towards an academic environment that puts an end to stigma, takes mental health seriously and tackles the root causes behind the growing mental health crisis in academia and beyond.

Political History Journals from Liverpool University Press

Since 1960, Labour History Review has explored the working lives and politics of 'ordinary' people and has played a key role in redefining social and political history.

The journal's emphasis is on British labour history, though comparative and international studies are not neglected.

Labour History Review is indexed and abstracted in Arts and Humanities Citation Index and ERIH PLUS.

Labour History, which has been appearing twice yearly since 1962, is the premier outlet for refereed, scholarly articles in the fields of social and labour history in Australasia.

The interdisciplinary nature of labour history, and its acceptance of less traditional sources, including folklore and oral testimony, make it a fascinating field, alive to past and present social justice issues.

Theory & Struggle is the journal of the Marx Memorial Library, an independent charity dedicated to the advancement of education and learning in all aspects of Marxism, labour and working class history.

Published annually, the journal grapples with debates taking place within Marxist circles as well studying critical developments in the labour and progressive movements in Britain and internationally.

Historical Studies in Industrial Relations was established in 1996 by the Centre for Industrial Relations to provide an outlet for, and to stimulate an interest in, historical work in the field of industrial relations and the history of industrial relations thought.

Content broadly covers the employment relationship and economic, social and political factors surrounding it. The journal is indexed and abstracted in Scopus.

This book is interrogative, enlightening, and totally reorients both our views and understanding of gender norms.

Marcus Littles, Founder and Senior Partner, Frontline Solutions

Gender Norms and Intersectionality looks at the impact of rigid gender norms on the young people who internalize them, and shows how the highly gendered systems of health, education, and criminal justice relentlessly police and sustain narrow ideas of masculinity and femininity.

Riki Wilchins' monograph offers a starting point for a long overdue movement to elevate "applied gender studies" by providing both a reference and guide for researchers, students, policymakers, funders, non-profit leaders, and grassroots advocates.

Riki Wilchins is an author, activist and gender theorist. As one of the founders of modern transgender political activism in the 1990s, Riki Wilchins has been a leading advocate for gender rights and gender justice for 20 years, and is one of its first theorists and chroniclers.
