

The 10th Annual Political Studies Association/British International Studies Association Conference

Teaching Politics as a Vocation

Date: 14-15 September 2017

Location: University of Lincoln, Brayford Pool, Lincoln

Convenors: Professor Mike Neary (mneary@lincoln.ac.uk) Dr Yee Wah Foo (ywfoo@lincoln.ac.uk)

Programme

Thursday, 14 September 2017

11.00-11.30 Registration and coffee

11.30-11.45 Welcome remarks by Professor Sarah Owen

Session 1

11.45-1.15

Sue Bond Taylor, Lincoln – The Ethics of Care as a Philosophy for Teaching Politics as a Vocation

Dr Adele Langlois, Lincoln – Supporting ‘gifted’ Students

Prof. Mike Neary, Lincoln - Co-operative Higher Education

1.15–2.00 Lunch

Keynote Speaker

2.00-3.00

Dr. Edwin Bacon, Birkbeck – How should we address the mismatch between theoretical and applied politics?

3.00-3.15 Coffee

Session 2

3.15-4.45

Dr Matthew Barr, Southampton and Dr Louise Jackson, Trinity Laban – Enhancing delivery and assessment: A case study in Political Science module redesign for improved transition into Higher Education

Kathryn Brookfield, Lincoln and Jill Jameson, Lincoln - Applied politics – challenges and possibilities for teaching critically within a neo-liberal employability agenda.

Polly Wilding, University of Leeds and Stuart McAnulla, University of Leeds - Keeping Everybody Happy? The Politics of Digital: Delivering Interdisciplinary Teaching and Learning on a Blended Learning Module

Dinner

Programme
Friday, 15 September 2017

9.00-10.30 PSA Trustees: Dr Rose Gann, Dr Donna Smith

Round Table

9.30-10.30

Chair: Professor Mike Neary

Title: Teaching Politics in Higher Education: passion, perspective and bureaucracy

Coffee 10.30 – 11.00

Keynote Speaker

11-12.00

Professor Jacqui Briggs - Post-the 2017 General Election, what will happen to the teaching and learning of politics in the higher education sector?

Session 3

12.00-1.00

Dr Rose Gann, Nottingham Trent - Developing a politics curriculum fit for the 21st century: the crafting of the new A-level Politics: reflections on process, design, content and context
Dr David Hughes, Lincoln - The Baberowski Affair and the Responsibility of Intellectuals in Times of Crisis

1.00–2.00 Lunch

2.00.300 Final Session

Title: Teaching – occupation or vocation?